HENRY CLAY FRICK DIES IN NEW YORK

ONE OF WORLD'S GREATEST
CAPITALISTS AND ART COL-LECTORS DIES AT HIS NEW YORK HOME.

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Henry Clay Frick, known as one of the nation's greatest capitalists and art collectors died at his home here this morning after a brief illness.

Mr. Frick suffered an attack of ptomaine poisoning early in November. He had nearly recovered from this when complications developed. He was 69 years old.

The career of Henry Clay Frick has formed one of the most fascinating chapters in the romance of industry in the United States. At ten, a boy on a farm in a family of only ordinary means, he was, at sixty, a man of so many millions that his fortune, like those of Carnegie and Rockefeller, was largely a matter of guess work even to himself. It has been said that he was worth more than $100,000,000, perhaps as much as $200,000,000.

Mr. Frick built up the greatest coke business in the world, and acquired such vast interests in steel that he was also one of the principal magnets in that industry and in rounding out his career he became known as one of the world's greatest collectors of master paintings.

Mr. Frick was born December 19, 1849, at West Overton, Pa. This village was named after the maternal grandfather of Mr. Frick, Abram Oberholt, whose original family name was Oberholtzer, and who settled in Western Pennsylvania when that region was regarded as the frontier of civilization. As the settlements along the Allegheny and Monongahela grew, and Pittsburgh emerged from its swaddling clothes, Mr. Oberholt became the leading miller and distiller of Western Pennsylvania. His daughter, Elizabeth, married John W. Frick, a young man of Swiss ancestry, who at that time was working as an engineer in the Oberholt distillery. It was from this union that the future capitalist was born. The father attempted farming, but did not make a remarkable success of it and as a result young Henry Clay Frick was practically adopted into the Oberholt family when he was about 12 years old. He received a good basic schooling, but there was nothing in his childhood to indicate the remarkable ability which characterized his later life, except his eagerness to get into business. For a time he was bookkeeper in his grandfather's distillery and from that position he went to Morgan and Company, coke dealers, and at about 21 years of age he appeared in Pittsburgh as their agent. The coke industry was in its infancy. The iron masters of Pittsburgh were just beginning to appreciate the value of coke for their furnaces. Young Frick had an opportunity to acquire a limited interest in a plant at Broadford and out of the profits of this he acquired other holdings. He later joined a company to build a railroad to penetrate into the Connellsville coke regions, and in 1871 the year the road was opened, Mr. Frick completed the corporation of Frick and Company which bought coal and coke ovens in the Connellsville region. That was the basis of the Frick fortune. The undivided attention of the rising financier was given to coke until 1882.

In the midst of this period there came the panic of '73 and the financial crash of many ambitious operators. At a sheriff's sale Mr. Frick purchased additional tracts of coal land and ovens, and a few years the Mellons, powerful Pittsburgh bankers, became interested in the expanding enterprise of the young operator. The Carnegies, then developing their great steel business in Pittsburgh, had taken large holdings in the Frick coke company and in 1882 Mr. Frick found the Carnegie brothers willing to admit him as a member of their firm in consideration of his giving them still further interests in his coke business. It was thus Mr. Frick became also a great manufacturer of steel.

Through the Homestead strike of 1892, Mr. Frick came into national prominence. Differences had arisen between the Carnegie Steel Company and its employees over a wage scale, culminating in a strike involving thousands of men; the calling out of the National Guard and the proclamation of martial law. It was at this period, July 22, 1892, that Alexander Berkman, a New York anarchist, tried to assassinate Mr. Frick. Berkman walked into Mr. Frick's office, drew a revolver and fired, the bullet lodging in Mr. Frick's neck. Mr. Frick was shot a second time and then grappled with Berkman. During the encounter Mr. Frick was stabbed three times, but he downed his assailant and held him until the police arrived. Berkman was tried and sent to the Western (Continued on Page Four.)

HIGHLIGHTS OF MR. WILSON'S MESSAGE

ON ACCOUNT OF ILLNESS FORE-
GOES HIS PRECEDENT OF AD-DRESSING MEMBERS IN PERSON

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—General recommendations on legislation to combat the cost of living, labor unrest, radicalism, and a readjustment of the nation to a peace time basis were the features of President Wilson's annual message to congress delivered today.

The peace treaty, the President told congress, will be discussed in a separate message later, as will also the railroad question. For the second time only since the President established the precedent of addressing Congress in person his message was read by clerks.

The President's principal recommendations were:

Establishment of a budget system for the national finances.

Re-organization of the taxation system with simplification of the income and excess profits.

Re-adjustment of the tariff system if necessary to meet new world conditions and to make the system conform with the fact that the United States is "the greatest capitalist in the world."

Recognition and relief for veteran soldiers of the world war, particularly in the way of government farms as proposed by Sec. Lane.

Proper measures to foster the dye stuffs industry, built up during the war to keep the United States independent of foreign supply.

An elaborate program for rural development in recognition of the farmers' part in the war.

At this point the President made his most extensive reference to the peace treaty by saying that the causes for the present unrest are superficial rather than deep seated and they arise from or are connected with the failure on the part of our government to arrive speedily at a just and permanent peace, permitting a return to normal conditions; from the transference of radical theories from European centers; from heartless profiteering; and lastly from the machinations of passionate and malevolent agitators.

The President renewed his recommendation for legislation to deal effectively with "those persons who by violent methods will abrogate our time tested institutions."

Several recommendations were made by the president to bring down the cost of living. Among them were extension of the food control law to peace times for the period of the emergency regulations, for (Continued on Page 4)

Where Is the Gas? Nobody Knows But the gas man. What?

Dear Editor:—If striking for higher wages and more time in the year in which to make a living when the public is suffering as in the case of the coal miners, is a manifestation of the spirit of bolshevism and public-be-damned, what is the matter with a man who is not striking, but fails to get out on a cold morning and turn sufficient gas in the mains to supply the people of Ada at breakfast time. Many a man had to go to his work this morning with a cold body and hungry stomach, and I learn that some of the schools in the city had to suspend for the want of heat. Why will the gas refuse to flow at seven and flow freely at nine, if it is not the regulator?

DARKTOWN GAMBLERS BAGGED AND FINED

Saturday night Frank Anderson and Wick Adair repaired to darktown to look into the negroes' regular Saturday night games. Upon stepping upon the porch, one of the sentries, who noticed the "visitors" pass by the window, gave the alarm and the secret danger signal, which is "rise-up" was given, and not many minutes elapsed before the negroes "rose up" and scattered in every direction. The police found the cards and money on the table and captured the supposed ring-leaders. Ed Price, S. A. Anderson, Forest Lewis, Tom Bly and Arthur Crump were arrested. Tom Bly and Arthur Crump pleaded guilty at once, but the others secured an attorney to represent them. The case was held over until Monday, when Mayor Kitchens assessed them $16.75 each. The cases were appealed by Attorney John Crawford.

FRISCO MAY STOP TRAINS TOMORROW

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 2.—Suspension of all traffic over the Frisco lines out of Oklahoma City is only a matter of hours unless the coal shortage facing the company is relieved in some way, while all railroad traffic here may be tied up by the end of the week, according to railroad officials in the city.

"We had a forty-eight hour supply yesterday morning, but received no coal last night or today," H. C. Conley, assistant general freight agent of the Frisco, said last night. "Unless we are able to get coal tonight or tomorrow we may be able to run a few trains Wednesday, but the chances are that we shall not. Other roads are also hard hit by the shortage and four or five days will exhaust the entire supply unless some coal is obtained from heretofore unknown sources."

FUEL SHORTAGE IS NOW MORE SERIOUS

HARD WINTER BLAST, WITH IN-CREASING FUEL SHORTAGE
CAUSES MUCH MISERY
AND SUFFERING.

By the Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Restrictions on the use of coal already put into effect by regional committees in places where the pinch of necessity has been felt, today were extended throughout the nation under an order of the federal fuel administrators. The most extensive shut down in the history of industries was in prospect and domestic consumers were preparing to endure privation and discomfort, as the strike of bituminous coal miners entered its second month. Only in Kansas where voluntary workers under protection of state and federal troops, and in the Newriver fields of West Virginia, was there prospect today of increase.

WESTERN COUNTIES CALLING FOR HELP

That western Oklahoma is in desperate need of fuel is the information brought in a message received this afternoon by County Agent J. B. Hill from the State Marketing Commission. The people of Pontotoc county are asked to furnish at once, if they possibly can, wood in car load lots to supply the need in the western counties.

Mr. Hill is anxious to serve in this crisis and calls on all citizens of the county to inform him if they can supply the needed fuel. Anyone who is able to furnish as much as a car load of wood is asked to get in communication with Mr. Hill immediately.

FUEL SHORTAGE ACUTE IN STATE

SHAWNEE OPENS MUNICIPAL
WOOD YARD; ENID PEOPLE
STAY IN BED TO KEEP FROM FREEZING.

SHAWNEE, Dec. 2.—So acute has the fuel situation become in this city that a municipal wood yard has been established and pleas have been sent to all surrounding towns asking that wood be conserved for use here. The gas pressure is very low and coal is impossible to obtain. Fifty business men of the city met with Mayor Watts this morning and arranged for the opening of the yard. Mayor Watts has sent messages to surrounding towns and to large wood producers offering to buy all wood loaded on cars or hauled to the city.

Municipal prisoners are to be put in the yards to cut the wood. Business men have donated wagons and teams to haul wood to customers in the city.

Suffering at Enid.

ENID, Dec. 1.—Failure of the Oklahoma Natural Gas company to supply a sufficient amount of gas to the Enid distributing company to combat the cold wave which broke here last Wednesday night and has continued since, caused Enid citizens to thrust out the problem of obtaining a sufficient supply is possible.

Officials of the Enid Chamber of Commerce got in touch with officials of the Oklahoma Natural Gas company in Tulsa in an effort to get an adequate supply of gas. The information that Enid people were freezing was given the response that everything possible would be done to get a good supply to Enid.

Telegrams from the chamber of commerce have been dispatched to the governor of the state and the corporation commission.

Many families in Enid were compelled to spend the day of rest yesterday under the covers of their beds in order to keep from freezing. Dozens of Thanksgiving dinners went uncooked, and hospital patients suffered from the cold.

Tulsa Schools May Close.

TULSA, Dec. 2.—With most of Tulsa's available coal going to the railroads there is danger that three schools of the city will be forced to close this week. The Whittier, Lowell and Osage schools use coal.

Suffering among the poorer classes of the city, who use coal for fuel, almost exclusively, is becoming acute according to A. M. Welch, county humane agent.

If the coal shortage develops into an acute situation, Tulsa may find some relief by burning wood. There is a considerable supply of wood fuel available to the city.

HARRISON LAW TO BE INVOKED NOW

AMERICAN LEGION BEHIND
MOVE TO MAKE LUTHER HAR-RISON'S ALL AMERICAN
LAW EFFECTIVE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 1.—Apparently American Legion posts in various parts of the state are determined to prosecute cases of disloyalty and intend to invoke the new "anti-syndicalism" law enacted by the last legislature to halt the spread of seditious doctrine and curb disloyal acts. The anti-syndicalism law was drafted by State Senator Luther Harrison of Ada, and is regarded as one of the strongest statutes intended to curb disloyalty. Known as Senate Bill No. 242, the "anti-syndicalism" law, as it appears on page 110, chapter 70, session laws of 1919, defines syndicalism as follows:

"Criminal syndicalism is hereby defined to be the doctrines which advocate crime, physical violence, arson, destruction of property, sabotage, or other unlawful acts or methods as a means of accomplishing or effecting industrial or political ends, or as a means of effecting industrial or political revolution for profit."

Sabotage is defined in the following language: "Sabotage is hereby defined to be a malicious, felonious intentional or unlawful damage injury to or destruction of real or personal property of any employer or employers or by any person or persons at their own instance, or at the instance, request or instigation of such employees, employers or any other persons."

Law Affects Every Violation

The prohibitive acts included in the "anti-syndicalism" law are: "Any person, who by word or mouth or writing advocates, affirmatively or suggests or teaches the duty, necessity, propriety or expediency of crime, criminal syndicalism or sabotage, or who shall advocate, affirmatively suggest or teach the duty, necessity, propriety or expediency of doing any act of violence, the destruction of or damage to any property, the bodily injury to any person or persons, or the commission of any crime or unlawful act as a means of accomplishing or effecting any industrial or political ends, change or evolution, or profit; or who prints, publishes, edits, issues or knowingly circulates, sells, distributes or publicly displays any books, pamphlets, paper, hand bill, poster, document or written or printed matter in any form whatsoever, containing matter advocating, advising, affirmatively suggesting or teaching crime, criminal syndicalism, sabotage, the doing of any act of physical violence, the destruction of or damage to any property, the injury to any person, or the commission of any crime or unlawful act as a means of accomplishing, effecting or bringing about any industrial or political revolution or for profit; Fortunate were the Detroit children, and the friends of the children, whose father last June built in the back yard a swimming pool twenty-four feet long and ten feet wide and almost three feet deep. Every night the pool was emptied; every morning it was filled with fresh water. A canvas awning protected the youngsters of the neighborhood from the hot sun, a mother who had general oversight of the pool saw that no harm came to them, and a boat big enough to sail in added to the fun. It was a highly successful experiment.

LABOR'S REPRESENTATION AT THE CONFERENCE

The statement is publicly made—and so far as we have noted goes unchallenged—that labor will be represented at the coming industrial conference in Washington by the representatives of union labor only. And the objection is urged in some quarters that unless this oversight or omission is remedied, the labor majority in this country will be without representation at the meeting from which so much is hoped. While labor organizers have been exceedingly active during the recent past, there are millions of workers who are still, by preference or otherwise, outside of the "organized labor" movement. Mr. Gompers told the senate investigating committee the other day that he had never seen a laborer who did not want to join a union. One of the committee members suggested that he could find a lot of workmen who were holding aloof of their own choice. The issue of fact thus raised might be worth investigating by the committee.

At any rate, the outstanding fact is that millions of laborers are not enlisted in the union movement. In any conference assembled to study industrial relations, these men should have representation and a voice. Their views may be worth considering. Their right to liberty of choice and action needs to be safeguarded. It may be suggested that they have no spokesman duly authorized to represent them. But that objection is easily met. In the embattled steel industry, for example, the lines are sharply drawn. The strike leaders, as we understand it, do not even claim that they have "unionized" as many as 50 per cent of the employees of the United States Steel Corporation. They do claim, as we understand it, that more than 50 per cent have quit work. But it is admitted that some of the plants are running, and it is directly charged that a good many of the unionized workers are being kept off the job by intimidation. An employee of an Indiana plant wired Senator Kenyon the other day that a majority of the men employed there consider the strike "a crime against the men that toil," and "a blow at the vitals of our government."

Plainly there are sharp differences of opinion among the workers in the steel industry. It would not be difficult for the senate investigators to nominate representatives of the so-called "unorganized" steel workers to present their side of the case before the Industrial Conference. It would be as easy, we have an idea, to select representatives from the unionized elements of other industries. Surely the conference should be "representative." And if there are workmen who contend that right to remain at work where others have ceased to work is part of the personal liberty of a citizen that can never be surrendered, they should be given the opportunity to present and defend that view before any national conference summoned to consider industrial problems and relations.—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

In the fiscal year of 1919 the United States exported $7,000,000 worth of goods—an unprecedented achievement. On the whole we exported fewer manufactures than in preceding years, but almost one third more cotton and almost two thirds more food. It would be interesting to know whether the tremendous gain in our exports of rye was due to prohibition or to the demand for rye in the great rye-eating countries of Europe.—Germany, Russia and the Scandinavian States—which had been unable to import it during the war. We shipped two and one half times as much as we shipped the year before.

RAILROAD PROBLEMS AND THE PEOPLE AS A WHOLE

To a good many persons in this country the railroad problem seems a matter remote to them. As a matter of fact it touches the whole body of our people very seriously.

The savings banks and insurance companies have invested to the extent of billions of dollars in railroad stocks and bonds. Their security depends to a large degree upon the security of the roads. The minute a blow is aimed at railroad prosperity it is aimed at the banks and the insurance companies, and so at the millions of their depositors and policyholders.

Under the modern system of intertwined industry and interest, no great business can suffer without every other being affected. This is particularly true of the railroads, the banks and the insurance interests. Let any doubter examine the bank commissioner's current report in any state. He will find a long list of railroad securities among the holdings of the savings institutions. If he has never thought of the matter before he will be deeply impressed with the intimate connection between the welfare of the transportation companies and that of the humblest depositors of his own community.

This connection should be enlarged upon in the public press, by public speakers and in common conversation. The more it is understood, the less danger there will be of unfair and unintelligent treatment of the railroads. An unfortunate tradition about railroads has grown up. They are thought of as capitalistic corporations that have no concern for the public except to "gouge" them. Past management are in some measure responsible for this, but we cannot go on forever compelling the railroad managers of the present time to suffer for the shortcomings of their predecessors.

Every savings bank depositor, every insured person, should understand the vital tie of the great steam lines of the country. When that exists between his prosperity and costs are heaped high upon the roads and they are not permitted to charge fair rates in return, the burden falls not on them alone, but on the great mass of the population. This is true not only of routine costs but of such exceptional costs as those occasioned by employees' strikes. When the New England roads were forced to substitute a skeleton service for the regular schedules of trains a few weeks ago, because of the walkout of the shompen, there was a very material loss of revenues in consequence, and that loss of revenues had an immediate effect upon the value of the railroad securities held by the banks and insurance companies. The more these facts are comprehended, the less popular sympathy there will be with railroad strikes.

As a matter of fact, there is less sympathy with them at the present time than ever before, as the brotherhood chiefs have discovered to their own and the general disadvantage.—Providence (R. I.) Journal.

THE SALTON SEA IS SAID TO BE SINKING

ONE OF THE WONDERS OF THE WEST SEEMS DOOMED TO DISAPPEAR FROM PRESENT SIGNS

By the Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.—The Salton Sea in the Imperial Valley, one of the natural wonders of the West, is constantly shrinking. At present it is about 18 miles long and nine miles wide at the greatest point. During the last five years, the water is said to have retreated about a mile a year, leaving a salt encrusted adobe land, which is eagerly seized by home steers. Often their location stakes are planted far out in the water.

The sea which lies 169 feet below the level of the ocean abounds in fish, mullet and carp, which local and Arizona capitalists are planning to utilize by erection of a great canery.

The United States Department of Agriculture reports state that about the Salton Sea lies the largest area of date producing land in the country.

Geologists say the Salton "Sink," as it once was known, in prehistoric times has changed from desert to sea and from sea to desert fifty times or more. For centuries the Colorado river would flow quietly to the Gulf of California and gradually build up a sand bar across its mouth. Then some spring flood would cause a washout in the river's bank further north and the whole torrent would sweep toward the Salton Sink. The desert would become an inland sea, remaining so for centuries, perhaps, until some great flood would carve out a shorter way to the ocean. The sea would be drained and the region relapse into a desert.

Mud volcanoes abound near the sea, a short distance inland. They are of all sizes up to great mounds 16 feet in height. They all emit steam, some in a steady stream, others steam and mud alternately. Many of them give out sulphurous gas. At times their roaring can be heard for miles.

More and more the sea is being visited by tourists and during the heated season, when the temperature is from 10 to 20 degrees cooler than in the valley towns, dances are frequently held on an old wharf, which once served as a landing place for fishing boats but which has been left high and dry by the receding waters.

Of especial interest to the tourist are the bubbling "paintpots." As the water retreats it is in a state of constant ebullition. Gases from some unknown subterranean source are continuously finding escape thru unseen vents in the bottom. Layer after layers of colored pigment is deposited. The retreating waters have left uncovered acres of this deposit, said by experts to be fully equal to the dry stenna and amber colors, of which so much is imported.

It is thought that the shrinkage of the Salton Sea will continue until it finally becomes a salt "sink" with a pool of brackish water in the center unless a fresh outburst of the great Colorado should replenish its waters.

ILLINOIS DOCTOR NOW PRESCRIBES TANLAC

SAYS HE HAS NEVER KNOWN MEDICINE TO PRODUCE RESULTS LIKE TANLAC

B. H. Elder, M. D. with offices at 410 Schradzki Building, Peoria, Illinois, comes out with his unqualified endorsement of Tanlac.

Dr. Elder graduated from Butler University of Indianapolis, Ind., later took a post graduate course at Rush College, Chicago, and has also studied abroad.

He has been in active practice over forty years—twenty five years in Peoria—and is one of the best known physicians of that city.

"So far as my knowledge goes," said Dr. Elder, in an interview recently, "medical science has never produced a medicine that brings results like Tanlac. It is altogether too good to keep from suffering humanity and I have been prescribing it in my practice for some time with remarkable results.

"For years I had suffered from stomach trouble and rheumatism and had devoted my best thought trying to find relief, but all to no avail. Right after eating, gas would form in my stomach and effect my heart, causing poor circulation, cold hands and feet, dizzy spells, spots before my eyes, peculiar feelings, terrible headaches, and cramps in my stomach. The rheumatism was the kind that is caused by uric acid deposits in the joints, and the pain was so great I could hardly stand to move my legs and arms.

"So, it's no surprise that I devoted lots of time and thought, using all my powers, trying to free myself of these troubles. But nothing I ever found until I got Tanlac after having been away for about six months, and I never in all my life saw a man look in better health or seem to feel better. While sitting there in my office he told me Tanlac was what brought about the wonderful change. I could not doubt it, for I knew what an awful condition he had been in; and I made up my mind then and there to try Tanlac in my own case. So I did and the results are that a few bottles relieved me entirely of stomach trouble and rheumatism and all my other ailments as well. I am an extra hearty eater, especially of meats and such foods as often produce bad effects, but none of these things disagree with me any more. So now, as I have discovered the value of Tanlac I am ready to honor it as one of the most beneficial of all medicines. I have prescribed it, in cases of rheumatism, kidney and bladder disorders and a rundown condition, with wonderful results. I feel that I ought, for the benefit of suffering humanity, to give my experience with Tanlac to the general public."

Liberty Gets "Mickey" "Mickey" which will have its premier presentation under the direction of Mack Sennett at the Liberty Theatre, Dec. 16-17, is filled with love, adventure and thrills. It vibrates with the contrast of poverty and wealth, it contains every element of human appeal, and because of all these things, critics have termed it the greatest motion picture ever produced. It is not the costliest, it is not the most spectacular, it is not the longest, and it is not many things, but it is the supreme achievement of the master of cinematograph, and producer of comedies who shows his ability and versatility in being able to make a play that will appeal to every man, woman and child, old or young. "Mickey" is a lovely little comedy played by Mabel Normand and before the fact is realized she is no longer Mabel Normand the actress, but Mickey, the little girl that will not be forgotten, the girl who has stolen her way into the hearts of human beings and there nestles closely in a warm spot she has found waiting for her. "Mickey" is a super-picture that comes once in a lifetime. It runs the gamut of human emotions with its humor and comedy, its slapstick farce, its romance, its pathos, its suspense, in fact almost everything and anything that an audience expects in any sort of great play. The modern-day audience who has looked on awe inspired at the massive film presentations of the producers, have another thrill coming in "Mickey". In short, it is a deluxe presentation, censor proof, wholesome, thrilling and to the very best scene satisfying. The cast of "Mickey" is an exceptional one, the foremost stars of comedy drama, and romance were gathered together during the making and from the galaxy were picked the most suitable to portray the parts assigned them. "Mickey" is well worth the wait we have had.

PROMINENT MEN IN XMAS APPEAL

FORMER PRESIDENT TAFT LEADS IN ELOQUENT PLEA FOR SUPPORT OF NEAR EAST RELIEF

To save the lives of 800,000 people in Armenia and other western Asian countries and to care for more than 250,000 orphans who are homeless there former President William Howard Taft, Henry Morgenthau, former ambassador to Turkey, and Alexander J. Hemphill, the New York banker, as members of the Executive Committee of Near East Relief, the former American Committee on Armenian and Syrian Relief, have issued a Christmas appeal for continued support of this organization and its work.

Near East Relief is now operating under a government charter and is practically alone in the western Asian field, the Red Cross several months ago having announced its withdrawal.

The Christmas letter, as classic of its kind, is as follows: "Dear Friend—Another little child has shivered up and died. The mother, creeping back, gaunt and cold, from the desert, has put down the thin little bones with those that strew the road and has sunk beside them, never to rise again.

"Only a little child and a mother out on the bleak Armenian road! But what is that vision hovering there and what is that voice the cold winds bear to the ears of our souls—I was hungry and ye gave me no meat; I was naked and ye clothed me not."

"Today—yes, today—while we are preparing our gifts for Christmas, many more of these little children—not a hundred nor a thousand, but 250,000 of them—are still wandering uncared for and alone in that dead land, their weakened skins clinging in fear to their rattling bones, and they are crying out with gasping breath, 'I am hungry, I am hungry!' And the voice of one who watches us as we prepare gifts to celebrate his birthday comes again to the ears of our souls—I am hungry! I am hungry! I am hungry!"

"Now, the children and the mothers in Armenia are dreading the winter. Just human remnants they are, not protected, many of them, from the elements by even the dignity of rags. The most favored have merely shredded rags. How shall we sing our Christmas songs and laugh and light the candles and give beautiful gifts while that pleading voice cries in the ears of our souls, 'I am naked and cold—naked and cold?'"

"But we can feed and clothe these perishing ones—some of them—before it is too late. Herbert Hoover has cabled from the Caucasus, 'It is impossible that the loss of 200,000 can at this day be prevented, but the remaining 500,000 can possibly be saved.' They need not starve and freeze and die if we will save them. In the name of him who saw the multitude as sheep not having a shepherd and was moved with compassion toward them, who exclaimed when his disciples would turn them away, 'They need not depart, give ye them to eat!' open your heart and purse and give to these Christians whom he loves, who are suffering for him and with whom he is suffering. They need not die. Give ye them to eat."

"Fifteen dollars a month will provide food, clothes, shelter and education toward self support for one orphan child. "Ten dollars a month will provide food, clothes and shelter for one orphan child. "Five dollars a month will provide food for one orphan child. "He fed 5,000 hungry people in the wilderness and said to his followers, 'The things that I do shall ye do also, and greater things than these shall ye do.' Today nearly 800,000 destitute Armenians—his people—need food and clothing. "He took little children in his arms and blessed them. Today will ye take one or more of these sad, cold, hungry little children of Armenia into your arms and heart in his name and give them food and warmth and life?"

"What a joyful Christmas it will be when your songs and your laughter you hear a voice of wondrous sweetness speaking to you, 'O ye Father, I was hungry and ye gave me meat, I was naked and ye clothed me; inasmuch as ye have done it to these, my brethren ye have done it to me.' "In his name. "Faithfully yours, "WILLIAM H. TAFT. "ALEXANDER J. HEMPHILL. "HENRY MORGENTHAU." For Executive Committee, Near East Relief.

New Opera House Will Be Opened About March 1st

Ada's new $50,000 show house will be ready for opening by March 1st, according to the announcement of Manager Foster McSwain. Work on the building is now well under way, and will be pressed as rapidly as the labor shortage and material scarcity will permit.

At the northeast corner of Main and Townsend the two one-story buildings are to be heightened to two stories and extended back to the alley. This will give the completed edifice a frontage of fifty feet and a depth of 140 feet. The seating capacity of the hall will be 1,200, which will be ample to accommodate the crowds that attend the average Ada show.

The new house will be provided with all modern theatre conveniences, a special feature being rest rooms for lady theatre goers. A part of the gallery will be set aside for negroes. The best pictures that can be bought and the best road shows that can be secured will be brought here by Mr. McSwain, and no effort will be spared to give the people of Ada the very best in the show line.

Mr. McSwain has done a great deal already for the people of Ada with his two picture shows and places the public still under greater obligation to him by providing an up-to-date show house. That the new venture will prove a success financially is altogether certain. It supplies something Ada has long needed.

"Hello, King of the Clouds," shouted all the rainbow fairies. "See, we've come! A beautiful rainbow, made up of so many, many little fairies, who are so glad to see you and Mr. Sun a-talking."

"And now we're going to dance. The earth people will not know that we're dancing, for we dance very stately and very quiet dances—not the hop, skip and jump, or one step, two step, a million step kind. Our dance is slow but it is very lovely, and we always take our same positions."

"See King of the Clouds, see Mr. Sun, we're going to arrange ourselves so that the rainbow fairies on either side, at each end, will tell our secrets to the earth, of how we love the earth and of how we kiss it with our fairy kisses and say we hope it's quite, quite well and happy."

So the rainbow fairies gave a rainbow dance. Their decorations, their lights, their costumes, everything went together in just the right way to make a most perfect rainbow for the earth people to see. And Mr. Sun chuckled and said to the King of the Clouds, "Well, your Royal Highness, this is a pretty big treat to have a pleasant talk with you and at the same time to see this lovely dance."

And the King of the Clouds answered Mr. Sun by saying, "It's a pretty big treat for me. A very big treat! Just see how my children are sparkling with joy! They love to come along when I talk to you! Everyone sparkles with brightness and happiness when I talk to you, honored sir!"

Up in Syracuse, N. Y., a treatment for rheumatism has been found that hundreds of users say is a wonder, reporting cases that seem little short of miraculous. Just a few treatments even in the very worst cases seem to accomplish wonders even after other remedies have failed entirely. It seems to neutralize the uric acid and lime salt deposits in the blood, driving all the poisonous clogging waste from the system. Soreness, pain, stiffness, swelling, just seem to melt away and vanish.

The treatment first introduced by Mr. Delano is so good that its owner wants everybody that suffers from rheumatism or who has a friend so afflicted, to get a free 75c package from him to prove just what it will do in every case before a penny is spent. Mr. Delano says: "To prove that the Delano treatment will positively overcome rheumatism, no matter how severe, stubborn or long standing the case, and even after all other treatments have failed, I will, if you have never previously used the treatment, send you a full size 75c package free if you will just cut out this notice and send it with your name and address with 10c to help pay postage and distribution expenses to me personally."

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

THE RAINBOW DANCE

"Come on, blue fairies," called the red fairies.

"You come on, too," said the blue fairies.

"Of course we will," said the red fairies.

"And you come along too, green fairies," they all shouted.

"We will," the green fairies shouted.

"And the yellow fairies—you must come too," they cried. "We will," called the yellow fairies.

"You see," said the red fairies. "We must all be here today for we're going to give a dance."

"Really," they all said. "When is the dance to begin?"

"In just a moment," the red fairies said.

"What are we waiting for?" the others asked.

"For the signal to begin," the red fairies said.

"Who will give it to us?" asked the other fairies.

"The Sun and the King of the Clouds," answered the red fairies. "But all of us must be ready, hurry now, it will soon be the time."

"All the fairies of the different colors go together, and each make a beautiful long, curving stripe by the way you stand," said the red fairies. "And those which go to make up part of the beautiful color—everyone take your place in other words, for you all know just how you must go to make up the beautiful dance."

"Ah, now we know," said the green fairies. "We didn't quite understand before just what sort of a dance it was to be. But with all our good friends here we wouldn't have missed it at any rate."

"We're going to have a glorious rainbow dance," said the red fairies. "We're just waiting for the signal from Mr. Sun and the King of the Clouds as we said before."

"That speech of yours made us think it was going to be a rainbow dance," said the yellow fairies.

Now all of these fairies were dressed in beautiful soft dresses of the colors after which they were named.

"When the King of the Clouds and Mr. Sun feel like being friendly and having a chat, well really, we have to celebrate it by having a beautiful dance, don't we?" asked the red fairies.

"Nothing could be a better idea," said the others.

"Hush, oh," whispered the red fairies. "Now, get ready, for we must begin our dance."

They all hurried into their different places, some of the fairies dressed in

Cotton Ginned In Pontotoc Co. To November 14

Prior to November 14 there were ginned in Pontotoc County 14,985 bales of cotton. During the same period for 1918 there were ginned only 11,450 bales. These figures are taken from the report of A. W. McKeel, special agent for the county. The rains of the past two months have seriously interfered with cotton picking, else the number of bales ginned this season would exceed the number ginned last season much more than the present figures show.

Twenty Million People Have Read
Tarzan Books Now in Films

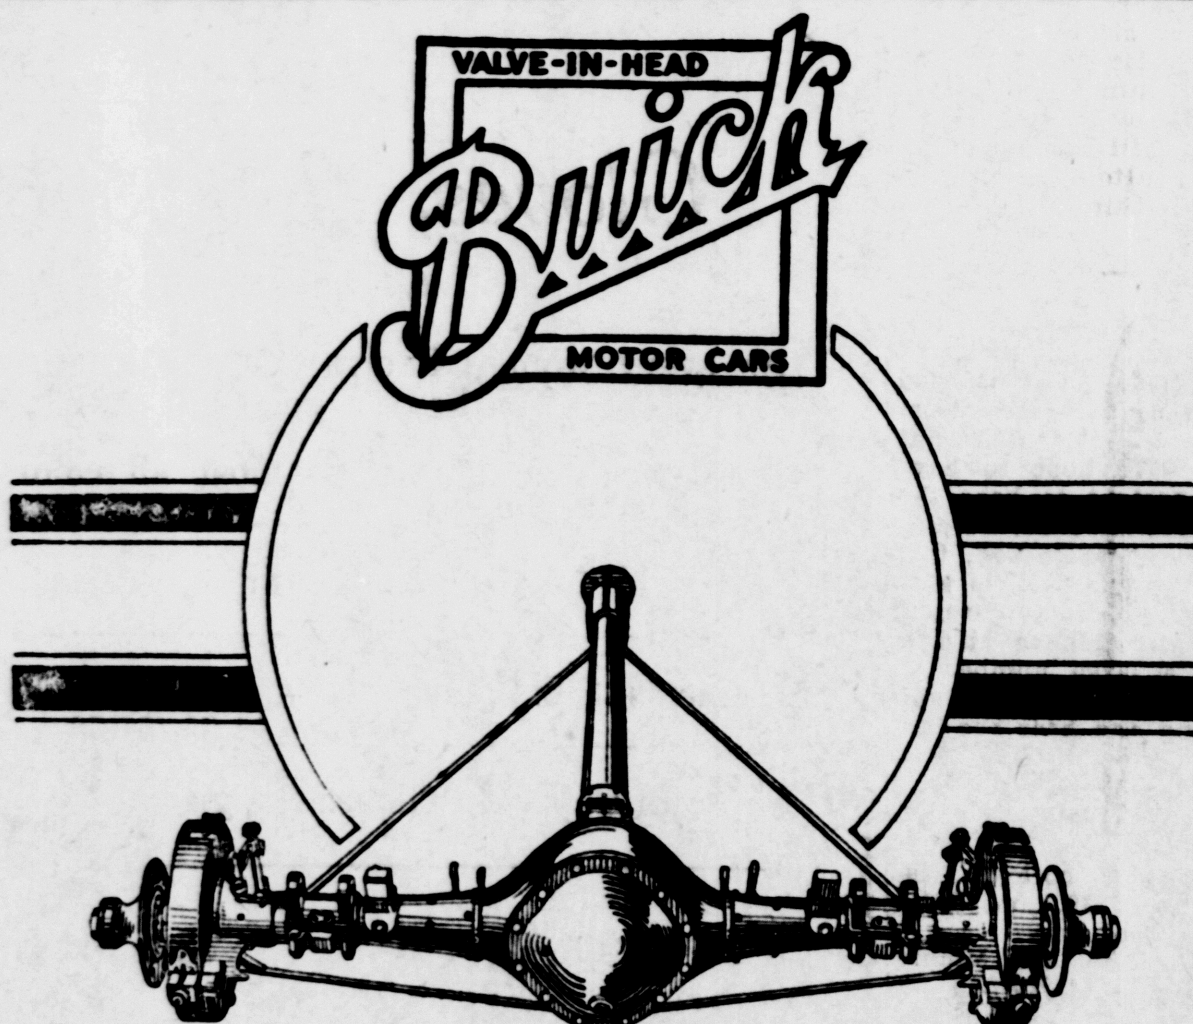

Tremendous audiences provided for "The Romance of Tarzan" by enthusiastic admirers of Edgar Rice Burroughs' writings.

According to the estimates of Edgar Rice Burroughs' publishers more than 20,000,000 people in the English-speaking world have read his famous "Tarzan" series of novels. The fact that this tremendous clientele already existed gave the screen version of "Tarzan of the Apes" such an immediate potential following that the producers and distributors of the film found it extremely easy to interest film fans as soon as the high quality of the film version was assured. People of all ages and walks of life gave to the film the same generous patronage that they had accorded the book, and when they found that the screen story was even the more fascinating of the two, recommended it so strongly to friends and neighbors that the big cinema production broke box office records in hundreds of theatres throughout the United States and foreign countries.

"The Romance of Tarzan," which is now showing at the Liberty Theatre, presents the concluding chapters of "Tarzan of the Apes" in a manner that intensifies the strong impression made by the original drama.

A brief prologue pictures the main incidents in the life of Tarzan previous to the beginning of his romance with Jane Porter, the beautiful American girl who has accompanied her father, a wealthy scientist, into the heart of equatorial Africa, where she has met and fallen in love with this white monarch of an ape tribe. Then the story at once plunges into the center of a series of the most stirring events, in which battles with bloodthirsty cannibals and equally savage beasts of the jungle provide tense excitement.

AMERICANS FIRST.

Another thing that we have had a surfeit of is this appeal to different classes of foreigners, and political appeals to elements that never have become real Americans. Every political platform baldly promises some concession to various foreign elements at the expense of genuine Americans. Every copy of the congressional record evidences some catering to German-Americans, Irish-Americans, or Italian-Americans. If it is not one class it is some other. And we are fed up on the whole disgusting performance.

Only the other day we received a letter from a well known politician urging the democratic party to chloroform its conscience and sacrifice the interests of real Americans in order to conciliate the Irish vote. The question of right or wrong was not raised in his pronouncement. It was a cold-blooded statement of party expediency. Unless we do this thing we will lose the Irish vote and cannot carry a state east of the Mississippi, etc., ad nauseam.

The vast majority of our people are thoroughly acclimated Americans. They bear the burdens of America and should receive first consideration. Yet they are the very ones ignored when platforms are being written and policies are being formulated. It's the boys with the brogue and the curled mustaches who are courted in convention and congress.

Some of our best citizens are foreign born. Many of them have identified themselves with their adopted country and are contributing to every movement designed to better America. All such deserve the best this country can afford. But the element that refuses to merge with our national life—that seeks to use this nation as a catspaw to drag our foreign chestnuts—these deserve no special favors, and the abject fulsome with which parties seek their favor is to be condemned emphatically.

More to be desired than fine gold is a party of Americans standing for America and Americans. A party with sufficient moral courage to place the interests of our own citizens above the interests of foreigners sojourning in our midst for a season. A party whose platform recognizes the superior interests of American citizens. A party that refuses to barter the traditions and ideals of our national life for the votes of a rabble.

GOVERNMENT BY CHARITY.

Just the other day we heard one of the most brilliant men of Oklahoma say that he will not be a candidate for office any time soon. The only reason he assigned for not announcing was that he has been prosperous, and that the people are not yet ready to vote for a man who does not NEED the office. Therefore, he would not run because he could not be elected.

We have always had some mighty peculiar ideas about whom we should elect to office. At one prior in our history no man without a beard could be elected to any office whatsoever. When someone accidentally discovered that a billy goat has a longer beard than a congressman, whiskers came into disrepute and are no longer considered essential to successful office holders.

For forty years after the surrender no man could be elected to office in any southern state unless he had served in the Confederate army. The same rule was applied in the northern states as to Union soldiers, but not so stringently as in the South. There was some reason for such a rule in a section of country where every man except a blackleg had borne arms. But in more recent times the colonel and the brigadier have passed out of history and other qualifications have come into general demand.

It would be safe to say that if Elihu Root or John Sharp Williams or William H. Taft should leave his reputation behind him and run for office in Oklahoma, he would be decisively beaten by some glad-handing candidate of little money and with less brains and with the ability to entertain a bunch of voters at the village blacksmith shop. Unless a man is friendly or needy, he is wasting his time when he enters the political arena and seeks the support of the Oklahoma electorate. The ability to fill an office creditably is the last thing demanded of a candidate.

You may talk of high taxes till you are black in the face, you may denounce misgovernment till the cows come home, you may criticize the incapacity of many men who sign the public payroll and cash public warrants—but you will never have what you are entitled to in the way of efficient government until you quit electing men just because they need the office.

Congress has assembled in regular session and all our troubles are over. With the same alacrity displayed on former occasions, the solons of America will discharge every obligation imposed upon them by the exigencies of the times. Questions of great pith and moment will be solved and settled with all the neatness and dispatch that has ever characterized those lightning driven sons of speed who sit in marbled halls and contemplate the condition of the Union. With the same assiduity with which they half-passed the fizz water repeal bill and started to impose a tariff on zinc they will approach those momentous questions that produced such a disastrous epidemic of verbal dysentery during the session recently closed. Hats off to the American congress! It can be depended on to take affirmative action, even tho it requires a thousand years.

penitentiary in Pittsburgh for twenty-one years. Thirteen days after the attack Mr. Frick walked to his office and resumed the direction of the great strike which continued until November 21 of that year. Mr. Frick was unmoved by the violence, and protests of the "distress of families of the strikers. He won and never begrudged the price of victory.

When Mr. Frick entered the Carnegie Steel Company he decided to make it the most powerful concern in the steel world. Two of his immediate ventures netted the Carnegie concern many millions of dollars without scarcely any investment.

Up to this time the switching charges between the various Carnegie plants had been very profitable to the railroads and expensive to the Carnegie company. Mr. Frick built the Union railroad to weld the scattered Carnegie plants together. This eliminated the switching charges and saved enormous sums for the Carnegie Company.

It was Mr. Frick who later took over a large portion of the Mosabioro fields on Lake Superior in a big deal that guaranteed the Carnegie company for fifty years a minimum supply of 1,200,000 tons of ore, driving a shrewd bargain with the Rockettellers who owned those ore lands.

Later Mr. Frick conceived the proposition of buying out Mr. Carnegie entirely, and in association with Henry Phipps, the second largest owner, of stocks, and with the co-operation of E. H. Moore and others, Mr. Frick asked Mr. Carnegie for an option on his interests. Mr. Carnegie demanded $1,000,000 for a ninety-day option and named $157,950,000 in cash and bonds for his entire holding. This price with the additional cost of the stock of the other partners in the Carnegie company brought the cost of Mr. Frick's scheme close to $250,000,000.

Mr. Carnegie became very bitter and tried to oust Mr. Frick entirely from the steel business. They developed a quarrel with many ramifications. Mr. Carnegie sought to have the board of managers declare Mr. Frick's stock forfeited at par value. Mr. Frick replied with a suit for injunction to prevent this confiscation of his stock, but was finally settled out of court by the reorganization of the Carnegie Company, which made several Pittsburghers millionaires overnight. It made Mr. Frick one of the wealthiest men in the country, but it was disappointing to him when Carnegie with the aid of Charles M. Schwab succeeded in interesting Mr. Morgan in the scheme he had previously rejected, and out of this came the financing of the United States Steel Corporation in 1901. By this again, Mr. Frick's fortune was doubled. His $21,000,000 invested in the Carnegie Company was turned into $61,300,000 in the United States Steel Corporation, although Carnegie had stolen his thunder. Mr. Schwab was made president of the Steel Corporation, and Mr. Frick's representative in that concern.

In 1903 times became very hard and United States Steel dropped to a low level. Mr. Frick then bought everything he could in the way of steel stock and when the excitement was over it was found that he had acquired enough to be a power in that concern. His first move was to depose Mr. Schwab as president, but W. E. Corey, another Carnegie man, succeeded Schwab. Then Mr. Frick attacked Corey and succeeded in having him removed. Mr. Farrell, Mr. Frick's friend, was finally president of the great corporation.

The breach between Mr. Frick and Mr. Carnegie never fully healed. A small instance of it was seen in Pittsburgh, where Mr. Carnegie built a large office building, naming it after himself, next door to which Mr. Frick built another building, twice as large and named it after himself. Mr. Frick, incidentally, became one of the greatest holders of real estate in Pittsburgh. In New York Mr. Carnegie built a magnificent home and some time later Mr. Frick built an even more palatial residence on the site of the old Lenox Library between 70th and 71st Streets on Fifth Avenue. It was here that he provided for a picture gallery which is one of the largest, if not the largest, private gallery in the world. It contains some of the most valuable and famous paintings by Velasquez, Rembrandt, Gainsborough and other masters. Many of these canvasses are said to have cost Mr. Frick several thousand dollars each.

VOLUNTEER MINERS START WORK IN KANS.

PITTSBURG, Kan., Dec. 1.—Kansas coal, mined by volunteer workers, was on the way to the furnace and stove at noon today. Crews of workers were started from Pittsburgh at 10:30 o'clock this morning to man two steam shovels in the strip pits. The first workmen to go from the military camp established in Pittsburgh were members of the American Legion from Wichita.

A train was run from Pittsburgh to a shovel plant near Pittsburgh and another plant at Cross, north of Mulberry, carrying the workmen and troops as a safety escort.

the transportation of food in interstate commerce and a law requiring marks to show the length of time foods are kept in storage and a law to secure "competitive selling and prevent unconscionable profits" by federal licenses of corporations selling food in interstate commerce.

A long portion of the message was devoted to a discussion of the condition and the rights of labor. "A definite program to bring about an improvement in the condition of labor" and bring about a "genuine democratization of industry" was recommended. "The only way to keep men from agitating against grievances is to remove the grievances" said the president's message.

Referring to the government's recent injunction against the coal strike the President's message said: "The right of industrialists to strike is inviolate and ought not to be interfered with by any process of government, but there is a predominate right and that is the right of the government to protect all of its people against the challenge of any one class."

The message closed with a pointed reference to radicalism and red doctrines and referred to "Russia today with its blood and terror" as "a painful object lesson to the power of minorities."

The Liberty

"The Romance of Tarzan," the concluding chapter of "Tarzan of the Apes" drew the biggest crowd of the season at the Liberty Theater last evening. It is one of the master pictures of the age and one that you should not fail to see. Huber's orchestra furnishes the music accompaniment and makes the picture a realistic drama. It is on again for tonight.

The American

At the American tonight will be shown another big picture of the Metro Corporation, showing Mary Allison, the American Beauty in "Soul of a Woman." The story is by Royal Brown in the Red Book Magazine. If you have already seen "The Romance of Tarzan," at the Liberty, then go to the American tonight.

Attention, Please!

I want to call attention to two things. The Second Baptist Church has changed the name to the Oak Avenue Baptist Church. Our friends will please designate this church by that name. Also let it be known and understood that the church has preaching services every Sunday, Sunday School at 10 a. m., with prayer meeting Wednesday evenings, Come and bring your Bible. The church is rejoicing greatly for having gone way over our quota in the 75 Million Campaign. We also rejoice in our county "going over." The ladies are rejoicing in the gift Bro. J. C. Hynds presented to the W. M. S. It was a check for $400, which doubtless will be spent on church property. This gift certainly is appreciated—also the one who gave it.

—THE PASTOR.

Attention Team Workers.

Let all the team workers in the Baptist Seventy Five Million Campaign be certain to see as many of those who have not yet been pledged as possible, and be ready to report tomorrow (Wednesday) night at prayer-meeting. We hope to have a large crowd present to hear the results at that hour. We are exceedingly anxious to make it $50,000.00, and we believe we will be able to reach this magnificent figure, if all our people will make a pledge. Let us have a large number of people present next Wednesday night at prayer meeting and hear the latest reports. C. C. MORRIS.

Malicious people are of two types—the actively malicious and the passive malicious. Between the two there is a difference not of kind but mere of degree. Churches and schools were also being included in these categories, although efforts were being made to postpone the shut-down of schools as long as possible. Suspension of railroad traffic over the St. Louis & San Francisco lines out of Oklahoma City today was said to be only a matter of hours unless coal was supplied. WOMEN TO REVISE NEB. CONSTITUTION

WOMAN SUFFRAGE ASSOCIATION HOLD CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION TO SECURE EQUALITY

By the Associated Press
LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 2.—Amendment of the Nebraska constitution so as to give women unrestricted voting privileges will be sought by the Nebraska woman suffrage association through a state constitutional convention which went into session today to revise the state's constitution.

Under the state's partial suffrage law, women have only limited suffrage rights. They are prevented by constitutional provision from voting for such candidates seeking offices which are provided for by the constitution. This makes it impossible for them to vote for governor, lieutenant-governor, secretary of state, auditor of public accounts, commissioners of public lands and buildings, members of the state railway commission, members of the legislature, United States senators, United States representatives, delegates to constitutional conventions, questions proposed by or submitted under the Nebraska initiative and referendum law, and members of the judiciary, except municipal court judges at Omaha.

They may vote, however, for non-constitutional officers, including presidential electors, local officers and issues, party national committeemen, delegates to national political conventions and precinct delegates and committeemen.

Any amendment giving women full voting rights will have to be approved by the male voters at the next general election, however, before it becomes effective, as will any other changes in the constitution that the constitutional convention delegates may make.

The present constitution of Nebraska has been in force since 1875. The convention is the outgrowth of a popular demand for revision on the ground that the constitution does not meet the modern needs of the state. The call for the convention was approved by the voters in the fall of 1918, following which the next regular legislature made provision for selection of delegates. The delegates were elected last November 4 on a non-partisan basis.

After the War Yarns

The worth of a man as a soldier is not always to be discovered by his exterior. Pete came to an engineer outfit with as vacant and indolent an expression, and as listless an attitude, as could be imagined even in an Italian mill laborer. He could not drill, he could not speak English, and about the only job he was deemed fit for was the job of permanent latrine police. When his regiment went up to the front Pete plodded along for the first few days carrying stone for roads in a mechanical sort of way, and bothering but little about the stirring events just ahead. Then one day the Bosche made trouble for Pete's platoon. His corporal was carried back with a leg torn off by German shrapnel. Pete woke up, discarded the mechanical mill shuffle, looked to the loading of his rifle and asked in broken English why the hell his company was letting the Bosche take a crack at them without taking one back. The laborer had become a soldier. Ten days at the front, all work and no rest, played Pete's company out and the best news of the men's lives was the news that they were to be relieved and sent back to a rest camp. And the only man in the company who protested was

Concerning the Story of Wraps

The story of winter wraps has reached its climax, as it always does, with the arrival of the opera season. It begins early in the fall with a recital of the affairs of the stalwart coats that must bear the brunt of real service throughout the winter, and progresses through many an engrossing chapter dealing with more pretentious garments. Finally comes the resume of the brief and splendid careers of evening wraps, some of them wholly frivolous. But each season witnesses certain coats that are as rich and as useful as any; they are the best efforts of the couturiers, and include the incomparable coats of fine furs.

In the same class with these, so far as beauty is concerned, are the two impressive wraps that the camera has reported with such fidelity, shown above. They are made of the hand-somest fur fabrics and completed with collars of natural fur of the best grades. Each is worthy of the other.

The coat at the left is made up of a lustrous and very beautiful material which is a replica of broadtail. It is ample and enveloping with lines that are managed with wonderful skill, so that it seems to cling to the figure. The sleeves have deep, flaring cuffs that partly cover the hands. There is the simplest of narrow girdles at the front and a big, luxurious shawl collar of fox fur. No brocade, however rich, or cloth of gold can outclass magnificent furs or do more than vie with as perfect a semblance of them as appears in this coat.

The textile fur in the coat at the right is like sealskin, but more supple. It has a cape-yoke and sleeves cut in one with the body. Its lining is a silk crepe and the wide collar and deep cuffs are of martin fur. The design is especially becoming to slender figures and the coat is so excellent in style and rich in appearance that it belongs in the class with sealskin. Like coats of natural fur, these may appear day or night at any sort of function.

RICH FOR YEARS BUT DIDN'T KNOW IT UNTIL TOLD

By the Associated Press
CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—Gustaf Gillman, a Chicago lapidary, was at work in his shop. John Mihok of Omaha entered. His appearance proclaimed the laborer. Reaching into his pocket, he drew out a rough red stone, and handed it to Gillman. "I want you to cut and polish this," he said. Gillman's eyes almost popped out of his head. "Where did you get this?" he gasped.

"My father picked it up in Hungary fifty years ago," replied Mihok. "He thought it was a pretty pebble. When I landed in this country in 1903, I found it in my valise. I guess my mother had chucked it in. It had been lying around my house ever since. The children played with it. My last baby cut his teeth on it. Once a rat dragged it into a hole and I found it by accident. It was lost several other times but it always bobbed up again. I came to look upon it as my luck stone. One night I dreamed it was a diamond and worth a lot of money. But it's not a diamond—it's red."

"No," said Gillman, "it's a pigeon's blood ruby."

"What might it be worth?" asked Mihok.

"I'd say anywhere from $100,000 to $250,000," answered Gillman and Mihok leaned against the door.

The big rough stone cut to a flawless ruby of 23 9-10 carats. It is believed to be the largest ruby in this country and possibly the largest in the world.

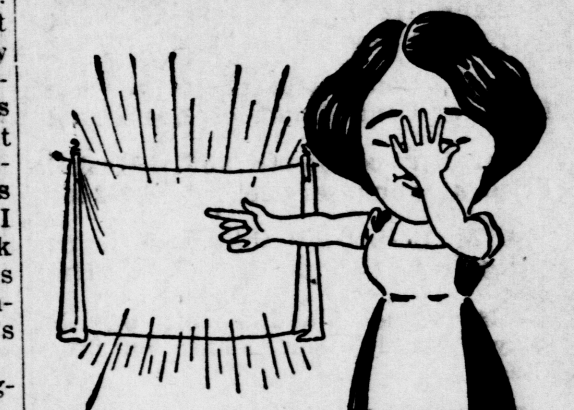

John Mihok has been a laborer all his life. Michael Mihok, his father, was a laborer before him. For fifty years father and son toiled to keep the wolf from the door and all the

YE TOWN GOSSIP

FROM WHAT I've heard.
DURING THE last week or so.
THERE ARE a lot of men.
IN THIS city.
WHO ARE in the same fix.
AS I am.
WITH REGARD to Christmas.
AND FOR the past month.
MY WIFE'S been asking me.
WHAT I want.
FOR A Christmas present.
AND AS usual.
I'VE TRIED to put.
IT OFF and told her.
THAT ANYTHING would do.
BUT SOMEHOW or other.
THAT DON'T satisfy her.
AND SHE insists.
THAT I make out a list.
OF THINGS I want.
SO SHE can select.
FROM THE list.
WHAT TO give me.
AND I start off.
WITH A box of cigars.
AND THEN I get stuck.
AND CAN'T think.
TO SAVE my life.
WHAT ELSE I want.
AND SHE gets impatient.

AND RECALLS the fact.
THAT SHE'S made out a list.
OF WHAT she wants.
AND IT'S a long list, too.
AND I think and think.
AND ASK her.
TO PUT it off.
FOR ANOTHER day or two.
AND THEN I'll tell her.
AND I keep hoping.
SHE'LL FORGET it.
BUT SHE doesn't.
AND AS I said before.
I'VE HEARD several men.
SPEAK OF the same thing.
DURING THE last week.
AND IT'S been suggested.
THAT WE call a meeting.
IN THE Chamber of Commerce.
ON FRIDAY night.
AND ALL get together.
AND HELP each other.
TO MAKE out a list.
AND GET it over with.
AND I know.
THAT'S THE only way.
THAT I'll be able.
TO DECIDE on anything.
EXCEPT THE cigars.
I THANK you.

EVERYDAY HISTORY

The Guns are Coming Home.
"Look, Jimmie, at the guns go by, just see them on that train; those guns have all been overseas and now they're home again. Why those old boys have done a bit we never can repay, and think how long they've waited for that chalk mark 'U. S. A.' D'ye mind the time we hit the front, how shaky we all was, and then the guns they seemed to say, 'Just take a look at us. We all aren't scared, we're pointing right, and we're all here to stay, and give the Huns a taste of Hell until the war's last day!' And do you mind how those old guns that's now a-freighting past, just seemed to know that every hour might be the world war's last? And how they cried for more of shells and more and more and more, and how we let loose all we had on that last day of war? They didn't seem to speak, they spoke, I heard them talking plain, I told my legs to wait awhile and served my gun again. And now those guns are coming home, and no one's here to tell how those old boys up on the cars all did their work so well. Say, Jim, no home they give those guns can be a bit too good; they worked for us, they fought for us, they good as shed their blood."

And though they've no band to play, and they come home alone, we'll wave them all a bit of thanks—the guns that's coming home."

Chewing Tobacco, Horse Hair or a Fresh Rabbit Skin

By the Associated Press
NIEGOSH, Montenegro, Nov. 28.—American physicians doing relief work in Montenegro tell of some curious methods of treatment employed by the inhabitants of this little mountain country. When a Montenegrin is wounded the first thought of the natives is to apply chewing tobacco, horsehair, or a fresh rabbit skin with the hair facing inside. Common ink is considered a sovereign remedy for burns. To stop bleeding sore or wounds cobwebs are used. When a person is bitten by a dog, the favorite remedy is to pull off the animal's ear and rub the wound with it.

The patron saint of Montenegro is St. Vasilisa, whose shrine is situated on the summit of a mountain between Podgoritz and Niksic. Every week thousands of devout Montenegrins come to this mountain shrine seeking cure for their ills.

But since the arrival of the American physicians pilgrimages to the ancient shrine have not been so numerous. For the natives have found that their ills can be cured much nearer home and with greater certainty at any of the numerous Red Cross dispensaries and clinics. The inhabitants come from the remotest mountain regions. They are carried in all sorts of conveyances, wheelbarrows, donkey carts, buffalo wagons or on horseback. In one case an old woman, suffering from scarlet fever, was brought to the Red Cross hospital at Niegosh, which is notable as the birthplace of King Nicholas, in an iron soup pot. It required four days to get her over the many mountain ranges.

In another instance a farmer carried his typhus-afflicted wife on his back a distance of 65 miles and at the end of the journey fell exhausted on the steps of the Red Cross hospital. He was rewarded for his labors, however, four weeks later by the complete recovery of his wife.

In numerous instances persons suffering from total blindness have been led over tedious mountain roads to the Red Cross hospital by sympathetic friends or sorrowing relatives, only to find that nothing can be done for them. There is a great prevalence of cataract in the country, caused by chronic malaria and other diseases.

Symptoms of kidney disease should receive instant attention, as neglect is dangerous. If your back aches or you have trouble with the urine, begin taking Prickly Ash Bitters. It is a dependable kidney remedy. Price $1.25 per bottle at Gwin & Mays Drug Co. adv.

Adolpho Luque.

Adolpho Luque, the temperamental Cuban bean ball pitcher on the roster of the Cincinnati champions, is receiving the attention of the national commission these days because of his persistence in the matter of playing winter baseball in and about Havana. It seems that when the Reds received their world's series money they signed agreements not to take part in exhibition games this fall. Perhaps Luque didn't read the agreement before appending his signature. At any rate as soon as he reached his home town he signed with one of the Cuban teams and has been playing ever since. August Herrman cabled Adolpho to desist, but to date Adolpho hasn't given Garry a tumble, but goes blithely on his way. Just what will be done about it remains to be seen.

Martyrs of Discovery.

There is a general belief in the world that men who have added to the greatness of their countries are seldom rewarded in fitting manner, and often reap undeserved punishment, but how often this fate befalls men whose names are connected with the early exploration of America is less definitely known. Of all the men who gave their best efforts to America none were more faithful than Columbus, Raleigh and Henry Hudson, and all three died tragic deaths. Columbus, after three voyages to America, died in poverty and disgrace; Raleigh, who had made almost superhuman attempts to plant the English flag in America, spent the later years of his life in prison and finally met death on the scaffold. Hudson was marooned by his own men on the desolate shores of Hudson Bay and there perished—unless the improbable tradition of some Eskimo peoples that he became a member of one of their tribes is taken for truth.

Morris Answers The News on the Drive Question

Editor Ada DailyNews:—

After reading your editorial in the News of yesterday, headed "Our New Year's Resolution", I feel constrained to make a few remarks concerning same.

I want to say in the first place that I think your resolution is an untimely one, and if the American people should everywhere adhere to your policy, it would be the greatest calamity that could possibly happen to them. In a time like this when there is so much suffering in the world, for us to draw up in our shells like an oyster, and close our ears to the cries of suffering humanity, would be the height of selfishness. Our country is right now in an exceedingly prosperous condition, and I verily believe the cause for it is that we have been liberal with our money, towards those who are less fortunate than ourselves.

I will agree with you that "Drives", should stop but I do not believe that campaigns of "voluntary" giving should stop. I do not take it necessarily that your article was directed at the Baptist Seventy Five Million Campaign, but it was certainly included in your remarks, and I want to say here that this was not a "drive". You cannot DRIVE Baptists to do anything, and they know it. In this campaign, the people gave gladly and cheerfully, out of the abundance that God had given them. I will say further, that if anyone who made a pledge in this campaign wants to cancel his pledge, we shall certainly let him do so. We secured these pledges entirely on the voluntary principle, not assessing anyone, but leaving it at their own discretion as to the amount they would contribute.

I will say further that ninety eight per cent of the money contributed in the Baptist Campaign, came from Baptists people who are members of Baptist churches, in Ada, and the other two per cent were solicited because of persuasion in our direction. Do you mean to say by your editorial that you are going to discourage Baptists or other churches in their efforts to raise money for the furtherance of their work long before the war was dreamed of and we expect to keep it up until time shall end.

In the war drives, we went after everybody, but in this campaign we only sought gifts from our own people, and certainly you will not discourage any institution in Ada seeking to raise money among its own members from raising money for the purpose of carrying on its own affairs as long as it is raising money for a worthy object.

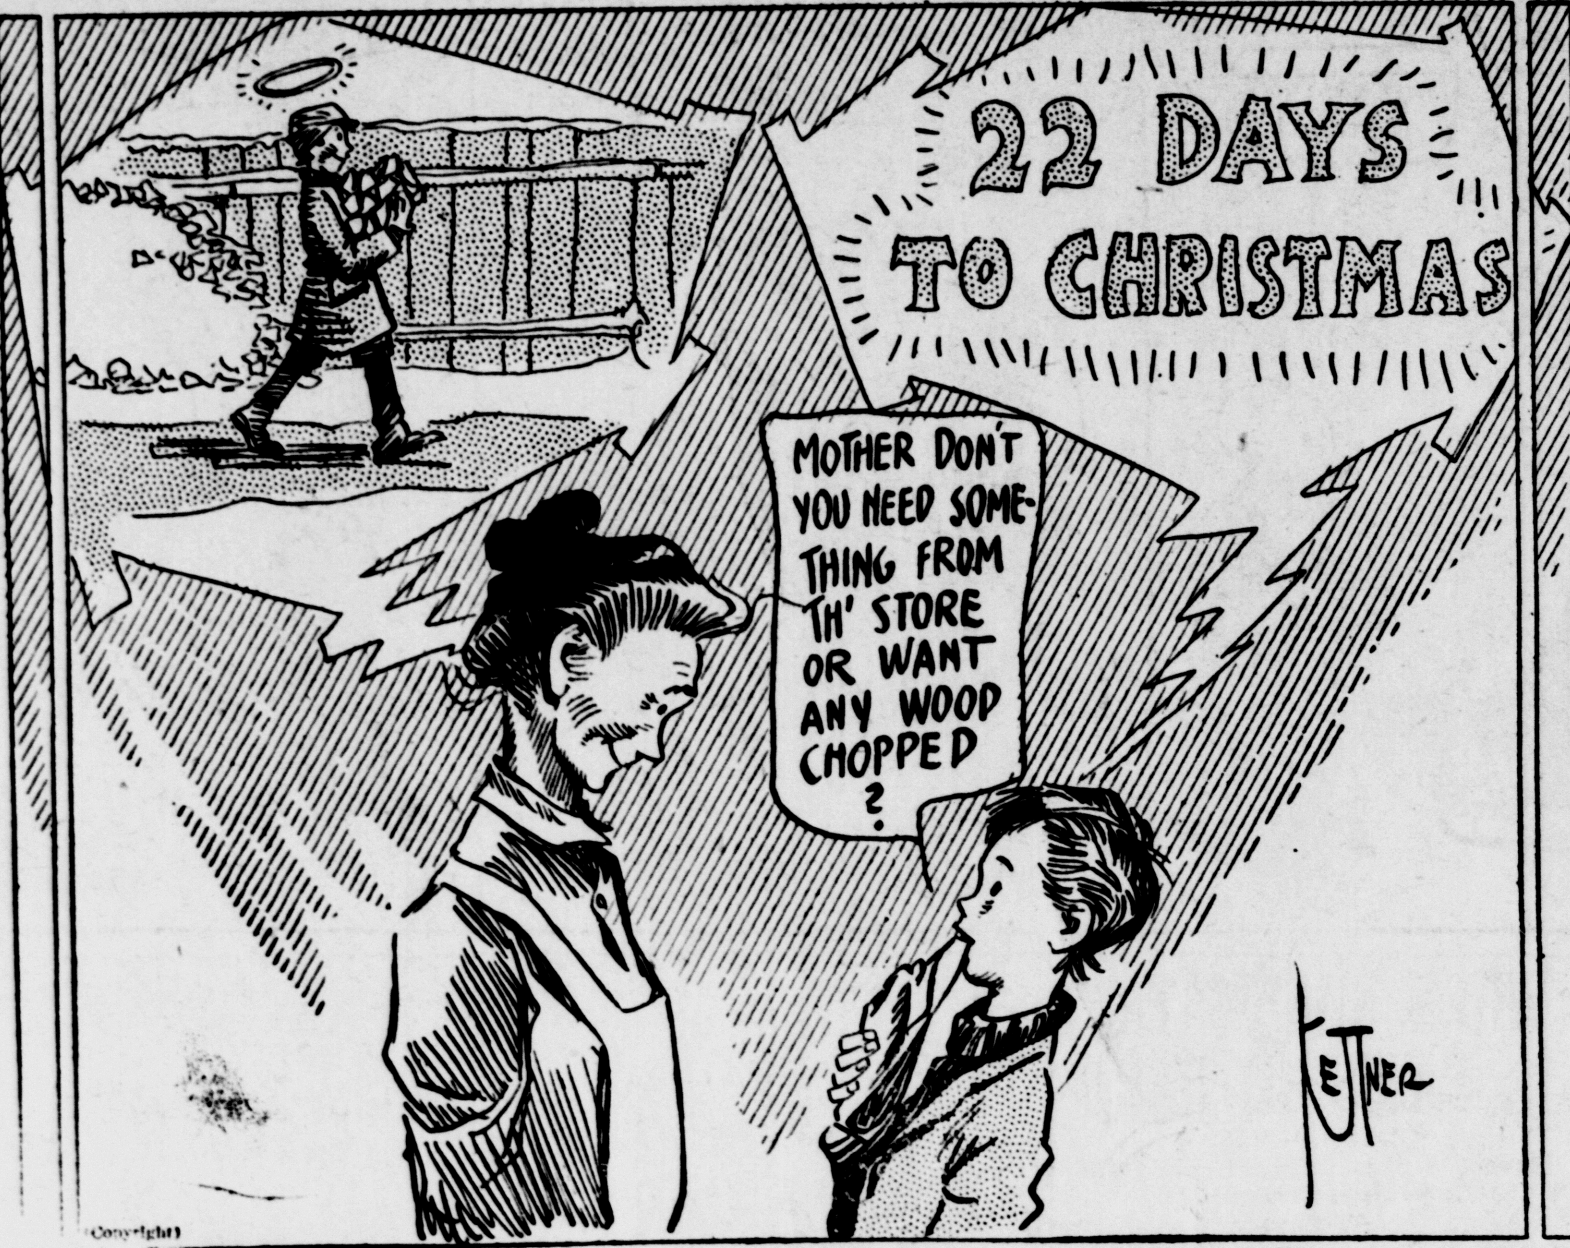

As to the advertising matter, we shall certainly expect to pay for it, and if you have done any advertising for this campaign for which you have not been paid, please make out your bill and submit it to us and we will see that it is paid. And when we put on our other campaigns, which we shall certainly do, we will expect to pay all bills.

In conclusion, let us thank God together, that the people of our beloved country, are freehearted with their money, and that they are willing to answer the pleadings of suffering humanity everywhere. Four hundred thousand orphan children besides women, in Armenia are looking toward America at this hour to save them from starvation during the winter. A campaign will be put on in the near future, for them and let everyone of us have a part in this great work.

If a little band of people, only about three hundred can raise $50,000.00 in cash and pledges, for the carrying on of its work, local and world-wide, certainly the six thousand and non-church members, with what can be gotten from the church people, ought to be able to raise money enough to take care of local needs. Here's my hand and my heart, and what money I can spare, for all good causes both in Ada and to the furthest island of the sea where ever there is need. C. C. MORRIS

Were You Ever Really Suited in an Overcoat?

So many men have remarked to us lately how hard it has been to find just the right kind of an Overcoat in the average clothing store that we wonder if YOU have ever really been suited in an Overcoat.

This question is not asked to belittle the efforts of any other store, but simply to point out how easy it is to find a coat at Drummond

The newest materials—the cleverest models—the latest colorings—the largest population of sizes and altogether the most opportunities for getting the kind of an Overcoat that you've always wanted, but never had—quite—are here—and now we are looking for you.
